p. 215). Microfilm kindly supplied by Dr. P. M. M. Geurts. The commentary does not only cover Sat. V, as the heading and catalogue suggest, but (in this order) sat. 8, 5, 13 and 14.

(*) Troyes, Bibliothèque Municipale, ms. 2041, f. 66-79v. Anon. comm. on Sat. XIV only. In Junii Juvenalis Aquinatis satyram XIII argumentum. [Inc.]: (f. 66) Juvenalis cum aetatem suam sceleribus omnibus inqui natam et ad omnia flagitia proiectam (sc. videret), stylum exercuit in vitii.

Comm. [Inc.]: (f. 66) Mulla fama sinistra. Sinist. Cum graeci tum latini pro rebus (sic) accipiant. Partial photostats kindly supplied by M. A. Morin. The commentary was tentatively attributed to Bulengerus by De Backer-Sommervogel (see below), but the Incipit differs from that of the Utrecht manuscript which gives Bulengerus' name. (Cat. Gen. Fr. Dept. Quarto 2,833).

Biogr.:
Julius Cæsar Bulengerus (Bulenger, Boulenger), b. Loudun 1558, d. Cahors August 1, 1628. Son of Petrus Bulengerus, a noted and versatile scholar. Was a member of the Jesuit order 1582-94 and 1620-28. Taught at Paris, Toulouse and Pisa. His numerous published works deal with theology, history and classical antiquity, and he also published poems and orations. His unpublished writings include commentaries on Statius, Vergil, Lucan, Cicero (Utrecht, mss. 831 and 832), Persius (Troyes, ms. 1278 and 2041), Pomponius Mela and Symmachus (Paris BN lat. 10822).
